L. A. Davidson, of West Milford, undertook to collect all possible data relating to his experiences as a physician and surgeon covering a half century of uninterrupted practice in West Virginia. An unexpectedly large amount of important information was thus obtained, and it seemed almost a duty to place before the people the information brought together, all of which has been obtained after fifty years of practical work as a distin-

Dr. Davidson is the oldest living member of Jackson Lodge, No. 35, Ancient Order of Free and Accepted Masons, Good Hope, and a life member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows.

Gerald Mandell, the three-year-old son of Matthew Mandell, of Fountain Springs, Pa., was the sixth member of the Mandell family, including the mother, to submit to an operation for appendicitis in two months.

As a successful physician and surgeon, a scholar and man ripe with rich experiences, an author and humanitarian, Dr. Davidson's works will be deeply appreciated by the people of West Virginia.

Dr. Davidson began his career as a schoolmaster more than fifty years ago when log houses with slab seats and hickory legs and a writing desk pinned against the logs between the mortar daubing and fired by long stoves fed by cord wood chopped at recess and during the noon hour by pupils, were considered modern temples of learning. At the commencement of the Civil war he was among the first to proffer his services for the perpetuation of the Union and at the battle of Iuka, Miss., rendered distinguished aid to his superior officers. Dr. Davidson was graduated from one of the leading medical schools in New York City, and later from the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, and the University of Ontario, at Toronto, Can.

His father, the late Rev. L. H. Davidson, was a prominent Methodist minister, a man of splendid character and remarkable vitality, having attained the age of 98 years.

The citizens of Harrison county and West Milford particularly have benefited by his knowledge, his untiring efforts to heal and comfort indiscriminately. Possessed of a pleasing personality and being by training and choice a gentleman under all conditions of life, his good deeds and noble work will long be remembered.
